PHYSICIANS HAVE BEEN BAFFLED

A case of sickness in which the attending physicians are unable to determine whether it is due to smallpox or some minor complaint, is keeping the city authorities in a quandary.

A few days ago Miss Eva Madison, residing with her parents on North Washington avenue, became ill and the physician, who was called to attend the case, could not definitely diagnose the nature of the illness. The symptoms were so conflicting that he called in another doctor for consultation. The disease baffled the skill of both physicians and two more doctors were called. At present the quartette of medical talent is unable to decide whether the young woman is suffering from smallpox or some less contagious ailment.

It is expected that changes in the victim's condition due to development of the disease will permit a definite pathologic conclusion by tomorrow. In the meantime, the sanitary officers will not place a smallpox placard on the residence, but will nevertheless keep the house under surveillance.

BRUISED IN BODY AND MIND

In a petition filed with the clerk of the district court yesterday, asking a divorce from her husband, Peter Christensen, Mrs. Georgina Christensen states that since the time of their marriage in Ogden, January 11, 1909, she has been treated in a "cruel and inhuman manner."

Mrs. Christensen says that her husband has been in the habit of hitting her with his fists and calling her vile names. She specifically states that on February 15, 1909, Mr. Christensen knocked her down against the edge of the door, inflicting many bruises upon her body and that again, June 11, 1910, he struck her and knocked her down.

The plaintiff asks for divorce, that she be restored to her maiden name, Georgina Jordan, and that the defendant pay the costs of the suit and attorney fees.

Mrs. Martin's Bruises. According to the petition filed by Mrs. Theodora Martin, home affairs with her are not what they should be. She also has petitioned the district court to grant her a divorce from her husband, Herman Martin, on the grounds of cruelty and inhuman treatment. She states that she can no longer bear the treatment given her.

Mrs. Martin relates in the petition that she married Mr. Martin at Rotterdam, Holland, September 6, 1902, and that they have four children. In her prayer she asks for divorce, the custody of the minor children, the use of the residence in which they are living, and the furniture, and pending the suit, reasonable alimony for the support of herself and the children, costs of the suit and attorney fees.

She states in the petition that since the time of the marriage, Mr. Martin has been "cruel and inhuman," at times slapping her in the face, pulling her hair, kicking her, cursing and swearing at her and calling her vile names breaking up the dishes in the house, threatening her bodily harm and death, and threatening to kill her relatives.

She says that about two years ago Mr. Martin threw her down upon a chair and hurt her back, and that only three weeks ago he threatened to kill her.

Hewitt Divorce. Margaret Hewitt wants a divorce from her husband, Zaccariah Hewitt on the grounds of failure to provide. The petition states that the parties were married July 1, 1879, and that for the past two years the defendant has failed to provide the necessities of life.

Threw Her on a Stove. Elizabeth Andrews claims that her husband, Amos J. Andrews, has not treated her right for the past year or more, and for that reason she asks the district court to grant her a decree of divorce.

Mrs. Andrews alleges that Amos has been cruel to her and, at times, inhuman. He is accused of having a sullen disposition, a refusal to speak to the plaintiff, except in an insulting way, of swearing at the plaintiff and using harsh words. The plaintiff also states that about a year ago the defendant threw her upon a stove, thereby injuring her considerably, and that for the past six months the defendant has utterly failed to provide the necessities of life for the plaintiff and the children.

The complaint sets forth that the parties were married at Ogden, Aug. 25, 1898, and that there are three children. Mrs. Andrews asks for a decree of divorce, custody of the children, alimony, costs, attorney fees, use of the home at 340 Patterson avenue, and, finally, a deed for all the real property held in the name of the defendant.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

Physicians and nurses, using living babies and more, had done course in the scientific care of infants to Philadelphia's public schools for girls.

The hearing of this case will be the hearing of the second case of the Hudson avenue controversy. The attorney for the city states that there likely will be not more than two other cases.

SECOND CASE ON HUDSON AVENUE

Judge Howell will be occupied in the Third district court, in Salt Lake, all of next week. Judge Lewis, of the Third district, will hold court here next Tuesday, at which time he will resume the hearing of cases connected with the Hudson avenue condemnation proceedings.

Judge Lewis expects to take up the case of the City against Carl Sorenson, the defendant being the holder in fee simple of real estate on Twenty-fifth street and Hudson avenue, a part of which was used for the avenue. Mr. Sorenson contends that something over three feet of his property was used in the opening of the avenue, and that it was reasonably worth $1,000 per front foot. He also claims to have been damaged in other ways.

The hearing of this case will be the hearing of the second case of the Hudson avenue controversy. The attorney for the city states that there likely will be not more than two other cases.

SERVICES ON THURSDAY NEXT

A full program of the services will appear in the Standard on Wednesday afternoon.

OGDEN CHURCH TO FURNISH ROOM

A Thanksgiving Praise program will be given Sunday morning and evening in the First Presbyterian church. The church will be appropriately decorated with fruits of the orchards and fields.

At these services the benevolent offering will be for the purpose of furnishing an Ogden room in the new woman's dormitory at Westminster college, Salt Lake. Mrs. J. S. Gordon, member of the board of directors, has announced that this building, erected at a cost of $30,000 is now ready for occupancy and the Ogden church, as many other churches are doing, will furnish one room complete.

Each of the sermons will have the place and merit of the thankful spirit in view as a minor theme and the Praise programs are expected to be as follows:
